SAP S/4 INHOUSE LOGISTICS CONSULTANT (100%, m/f, Job site Berlin)

We are looking for a committed SAP Inhouse Logistics Consultant (m/f) for our international SAP S/4 team, who can use his/her extensive experience to successfully support the development of the group-wide template and the subsequent rollout. Among other things, you will bring with you a solid understanding of logistic business processes as well as a team-oriented work style with a high degree of self-motivation.

We have exciting tasks in store for you:

- collaboration in the SAP S4S logistics projects across all project phases as well as support of the SAP S/4 implementation project
- organisation and implementation of various training courses and workshops for key users and/or SAP business users
- takeover of interface function between department and IT as well as service desk support after going live at the end of 2019
- optimisation and further development of the group-wide SAP system landscape in the area of logistics
- planning and implementation of further SAP projects (e. g. SAP S/4 HANA rollout for our international locations)
- providing holistic consultation for changes as well as the creation of concepts and documentation in the SAP logistics environment
- intensive cooperation with the relevant departments as well as advising them with regard to the feasibility of new requirements

You should possess the following skills and abilities:

- degree in the field of (business) computer science or comparable vocational training with corresponding further qualification
- practical experience in SAP logistics consulting in at least one SAP logistics module SD, MM, eWM, PP including customizing; experience with S4/HANA is an advantage
- team player with very good analytical ability as well as high personal and social skills
- fluent in English and German; an additional language is desirable
- willingness to travel

We look forward to hearing from you!

Become a SWISS KRONO family member where you can expect exciting tasks in an international company including great development prospects.
